You are a Clean-tech Sales Rockstar...or want to be!

If you are a Clean-tech Sales Rockstar, or want to be, we want to meet you! UV Pure Technologies is a global award winner, rapidly growing, early-stage company in the water purification industry with proprietary technology that gives our team a unique competitive advantage over our competition. We are positioned to grow aggressively, and we need your help to accelerate our growth!

At UV Pure, our purpose is to help cause global health with Pure Safe Water. Always. Our patented Crossfire Technology® is differentiated and advantaged. Although we distribute to many countries, our primary near-term focus is the Canadian and U.S. markets. This is where you come in.

To help us accelerate our sales growth, we are looking for an Outside Sales star to turn a new US sales territory into a rocketship! Your responsibilities will include managing existing accounts for growth, and developing new business. A big part of our go-to-market approach is presentation to water treatment technology distributors, OEM's, specifying engineering firms, regulators and other influencers so you must excel on that stage and be able to deliver presentations with confidence. Accurate forecasting, and updating of our CRM, Salesforce.com is important. Travel will be about 50% including North American and some international trade shows; when not on the road, you will home-office. It will be a challenging but very rewarding position, knowing that with each unit sold we are helping to keep people healthy by purifying water.

This position is NOT for everyone. To be successful, you must be able to deliver on sales budgets, manage a lot of information, act quickly, turn on a dime when needed, deal with rejection from clients and be persistent enough to stay on task, even when the going gets tough. You will have 2 to 5 years of sales experience, ideally with engineered technical products, and maybe in the US market.

A university degree is important, as is interest or experience in environmental or clean technologies; you will require excellent written and oral communication skills (English is a must) as well as strong computer and organization skills.

At UV Pure, we are very serious about building our corporate culture. As such, you will be expected to live our core values of: Customer Focus, Teamwork, Results Orientation, a Positive Attitude, and Honesty. If successful, you will be part of a team that is truly making a difference in the world!
